

Council votes not to approve contract for grant lobbyist

By Robert Perea

The Fernley City Council voted 3–2 at its Oct. 1 meeting to reject a proposed contract with Merchant McIntyre Associates, a Washington-based firm that claimed it could help the city secure millions in federal funding for infrastructure and public safety projects.

The firm's representatives, Co-Founder Mark McIntyre and Associate Vice President Brandon Bookout, joined the meeting via Zoom, offering a 90-day engagement for $30,000. They said their goal was to develop a federal funding strategy, identify grant opportunities, and support the city through the application process. The ultimate payoff, they said, could be transformative.

"We're not interested in press," McIntyre told the council. "We're interested in getting results for folks like you."

The firm's proposal included five deliverables: a resource inventory, a comprehensive funding strategy, a detailed grant grid, meetings with congressional and executive branch staff, and full support through the grant-writing process. McIntyre emphasized that the firm's value lay not in access, but in expertise.

"A city like Fernley should retain us for what we know, not who we know," he said. "We are the neck that turns the head."

Councilman Albert Torres was among the councilmembers who weren't convinced. He said he'd reached out to multiple federal delegates, including one on the appropriations committee, and none had heard of the firm—neither in Washington nor in Reno.

"Not that they haven't worked with you," Torres said. "They've never even heard of your company."

He also expressed concern about the cost, which was initially listed at $120,000 before being reduced to $30,000 for the trial period. "I think $120,000 can be spent better by investing in our own staff," he said.

Torres also questioned the firm's western U.S. experience, noting that its website highlights mostly East Coast clients. McIntyre responded that the firm had worked with Nye County, Renown Health in Reno, and, effective that day, the UNLV Eye Institute. He also cited clients ranging from the Los Angeles Port Authority to small rural communities in California and Washington State.

"The real advantage to Fernley is that we currently do not represent any other local government in Nevada, which means 100% of our focus would be on behalf of you all," McIntyre said.

He added that the firm had researched Fernley before reaching out and proposed the 90-day engagement to allow the city to evaluate its performance with minimal financial risk.

Councilwoman Felicity Zoberski raised concerns about the timing, noting the ongoing federal government shutdown. Mark McIntyre dismissed the concern, calling shutdowns "federal freeze tag" that pause but don't halt the grant process.

Zoberski also questioned the process that brought the firm to the city's attention. Bookout said they had identified Fernley as a strong candidate for federal funding and sent a letter to Mayor Neal McIntyre. City staff confirmed the outreach and said the proposal was placed on the agenda due to the volume of federal grant opportunities.

City says $26 million fleet discrepancy tied to accounting code

By Robert Perea

The City of Fernley said this week that a $26 million discrepancy in its reported fleet expenditures from its 2024-25 fiscal year budget was the result of an accounting code that combined fleet and grant expenses.

The discrepancy was reported by the website DOGE Nevada, which pointed out that the city had spent $25.7 million on its vehicle fleet since 2012.

DOGE Nevada's article highlights what appears to be a significant discrepancy between the City's reported fleet spending and its actual vehicle and equipment inventory. Specifically, the article references a $29 million fleet budget for FY25 and compares it to approximately $3 million in fleet purchases made between 2012 and mid-2024.

The numbers cited in the article were pulled from Fernley's OpenGov.com Transparency Portal, which aggregates financial data for public viewing. But a statement issued this week by Management Analyst Casey Kasten on behalf of the city said that, due to a legacy accounting structure, the portal has been displaying inflated figures for the Fleet Department for some time.

The city's statement said that historically, both the city's Grants Fund and General Fund Fleet Department expenditures were assigned the same department code (-480). This caused the portal to combine expenditures from both areas, including nearly $20 million in grant-funded capital projects, such as the Community Response and Resource Center construction, under the Fleet category. Additionally, the city said OpenGov.com's reporting method adds revenues and expenditures together, further distorting the totals.

For example, in Fiscal Year 2024, the city budgeted $173,000 for fleet but reported $8.1 million in spending, which the city said is largely due to grant-related expenditures like the Community Response and Resource Center.

In FY25, the portal shows $29.4 million in total fleet spending, which the city says includes both revenues and expenditures from grant-funded projects, not actual fleet purchases.

To prevent future confusion, the city's statement said the city revised its accounting structure in May 2025 as part of the FY26 budget process, assigning distinct department codes to separate grant and fleet expenditures. The city's statement also said staff are actively working to update the OpenGov.com Portal to reflect accurate department-level data and ensure transparency moving forward.

The city received a public records request from the website asking for detailed records about the city's fleet spending. The city's statement said it will work to provide a breakdown of operating vs. capital fleet costs; budget amendments for FY23 and FY24; purchase orders for large acquisitions; asset register updates and internal charge schedules. Each of those items were listed in the DOGE Nevada article as records it was requesting.

"We understand the importance of public trust and are taking steps to ensure our financial reporting meets the highest standards," the city's statement said. "We always encourage residents to reach out with questions and will continue to provide updates as we correct the data presentation in our transparency portal."

LETTER FROM THE EDITOR

The Inside Veer

It's cold enough already

It was cold outside the other morning, or at least just cold enough to make me reach for a jacket I hadn't thought about since April. Or maybe early June. This is Nevada, after all, and I'm cold-blooded by nature.

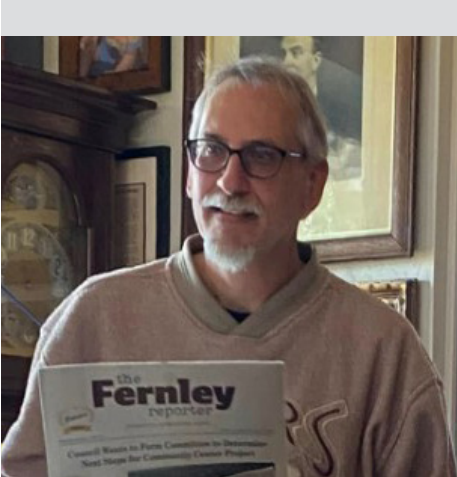

I know some people revel in the crispness of fall, or even the bitter bite of winter, but not me. As the Blues Traveler song says, I'm into warmer days.

There's nothing poetic to me about cold mornings, and I really dislike the shorter days, when the sun feels like it's clocking in late and leaving early.

The approach of late fall and winter means frost on the windshield and stiff fingers fumbling for keys in the dark. Everything takes longer. The car needs warming, layers need adjusting, and when the sun does show up, it feels like a tease.

I know the real cold is coming, the kind that settles in my bones and makes my knees hurt, and I'm not looking forward to that at all. But if 41 degrees on a Monday morning sends me to the closet for a jacket, what's going to happen when it's 12 and the wind slaps me in the face?

I keep telling myself I'll acclimate, that after a few weeks of cool evenings and cold mornings, I'll stop flinching when I step outside. But that's never how it works. I don't adjust to the cold, I endure. I layer up, grit my teeth, and wait for the sun to remember its job.

I try to convince myself that this year will be different, that maybe I'll embrace the season, or at least tolerate it.

But the truth is, I'm already cold, even though the real cold hasn't even shown up yet.

You would think that with another few weeks before the real cold comes,

I would have plenty of time to get used to it, to adapt, to stop flinching every time I open the door.

Instead, I'm trying to remember where I put my gloves.

Court denies motion to withdraw guilty plea by man charged with selling fatal fentanyl dose

By Robert Perea

Third Judicial District Court Judge Leon Aberasturi on Oct. 7 denied a motion to withdraw a guilty plea filed by a man who is charged with selling the fentanyl that killed another man.

Joseph Rose Tyler Maciel filed the motion to withdraw his guilty plea to a charge of second-degree murder on Aug. 1, ahead of his scheduled sentencing on Aug. 4. At that hearing, Maciel told the court he was requesting to change counsel.

Maciel was arrested April 24, 2024 on charges of distributing a controlled substance that causes death and fentanyl possession. On December 11, 2023, Lyon County Sheriff’s deputies were called to a home in the 3700 block of Citrus Street in Silver Springs for a reported overdose. The victim, Michael Fernandez of Silver Springs, ultimately died.

In January 2024, toxicology test results revealed that Fernandez died of acute fentanyl intoxication. Investigators alleged that Maciel was the suspect who sold Fernandez the fentanyl and arrested him during a traffic stop on April 24, 2024.

During the Oct. 7 hearing, attorney Christopher Day argued that Maciel’s previous attorney, Kale Brock, was unable because of a heavy caseload to dedicate the time a second-degree murder case requires.

Day cited case law stating that a court may grant a defendant’s motion to withdraw his plea for any reason where permitting withdrawal would be fair and just. Deputy District Attorney Sean Neahusan pointed out that also means when permitting the withdrawal would be fair and just to all parties involved, not just to the defendant.

In a supplemental filing to the motion, Day also stated actual innocence as grounds for the motion. Day said Maciel and his wife received information from friends saying they believe they know who sold the likely fatal dose to the victim.

“We believe, with a bit further investigation, we would have admissible evidence in court of the alleged victim here purchasing from other individuals at around the same time period, thereby either exonerating my client that’s he’s factually entirely innocent or to that it’s unknown, cannot be proven beyond a reasonable doubt, who in fact sold the fatal dose here,” Day said.

Day said he believes the court could rest a decision on a specific reason to withdraw the plea, such as that there was ineffective assistance of counsel while the defendant was entering his plea, the court could find that the defendant does have a credible claim of innocence or that he’s not guilty in this case. Third, he said, would be if the judge found that any reason permitting withdrawal of the plea would be fair and just.

Day called public defender Kale Brock to testify. Brock represented Maciel during the negotiation of the plea agreement.

Brock, who is the public defender handling cases in Dayton and Walker River justice courts, said his caseload is probably a little higher than 200 cases, which he acknowledged is a high caseload. Brock estimated that he spent between five and 10 hours on Maciel’s case prior to the preliminary hearing. He also estimated another 10 hours of looking at discovery in the case.

Brock testified that when he was assigned Maciel’s case, the district attorney had made an offer to Maciel that disposed of four misdemeanor charges against Maciel in Walker River Justice Court. Brock detailed meetings he had with Maciel, his family and other people who were supporting him and related how difficult the decision was for Maciel to accept the plea.

“But I didn’t distinguish between him just being generally nervous and distraught about what he was about to go in the courtroom and do versus specifically, not wanting to go forward with it,” Brock said. “It just seemed like he was nervous.”

Regarding the time he spent going over the plea agreement with Maciel, Brock testified that he has a routine where he replicates the canvas by the court at the preliminary hearing, asking the defendant the same questions the judge would ask.

Day asked Brock if Maciel ever mentioned other possible perpetrators or defenses. Brock said he didn’t remember that, but wasn’t certain enough to say no.

“He didn’t come to me with documents, but he did come to me with concerns,” Brock said. “In that package of concerns may very well have been a discussion that this individual could have been using narcotics from other people. I mean, we were both aware that he may have had a fighting chance at trial.”

Day asked Brock whether he advised Maciel to take the plea.

“Neither of us were under the impression that it was a screaming deal, but after discussing with me and him and his family, it still felt like that would be the best avenue forward for him, given the circumstances,” Brock responded. “And I’m not surprised that there’s heartburn over it because it’s dismissing misdemeanors. It’s not a 50-50 trade.”

On cross examination, Neahusan asked Brock if it would surprise him that felonies were involved in the dismissal as well. Brock said he recalled them being minor cases.

“But if felonies were clustered in there, given how many of them there were, I would not be overly surprised,” Brock added.

In response to another question, Brock estimated there were nearly a half dozen status conferences in the case prior to the preliminary hearing.

“We continued to have status hearings to allow Mr. Maciel to chew on the deal being offered,” Brock said. “Those status hearings were always to determine whether or not a plea agreement had been struck.”

Neahusan also asked if it was Brock’s understanding that it was Maciel’s desire to take the plea.

“Yes, it was, and in defense of myself, I wouldn’t have set him up for an arraignment if I didn’t think that’s what he actually wanted,” Brock said. “I believe that he knew what he was doing when he entered his plea in the canvas.”

Maciel testified that he mostly met with Brock for about five or 10 minutes each time before court to go over what they were seeing the judge for that day, for about an hour total. He said those conversations felt rushed and that he didn’t feel like he had the chance to sit down and talk with his attorney for as long as he needed.

Day asked Maciel if, during that time, he or his wife received some information relevant to his case. Maciel said he was told by two people that another person sold drugs to the victim around the same time.

Maciel said he understood the plea offer to mean he could be sentenced to either 10 years to life in prison, or a definite term of 10-25 years, in exchange for misdemeanors and a Class C felony charge being dropped. He said he felt led to believe the penalty could be more severe if he went to trial.

“I wasn’t aware that if I was tried and found guilty that that’s what I would get anyways,” Maciel said.

Maciel said he didn’t get a chance to talk to Brock about possible defenses in his case.

“It seemed like he was just trying to push the deal on me every time I would see him before court,” Maciel said.

On the day he accepted the plea in court, “I feel like I wasn’t aware of exactly what I was doing,” Maciel said. “He never really went over my case with me.”

Neahusan asked Maciel if he remembered answering the question in court about how many times he discussed the case with his attorney by saying eight or nine times, if he recalled telling the court yes when being asked if he had the chance to discuss the charge against him, the facts alleged in

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Nevada Promise Scholarship deadline is Oct. 31

Courtesy of Western Nevada College

High school seniors and their parents should be aware of the Oct. 31 deadline to apply for a tremendous opportunity to access higher education: the Nevada Promise Scholarship.

High school seniors graduating in spring 2026 can apply now for this last-dollar scholarship, which helps cover up to three years of tuition and mandatory fees at any Nevada community college. By applying, students can save more than $3,000 per year on college costs.

Created by the Nevada Legislature in 2017, the Nevada Promise Scholarship is designed to close the financial gap left after federal or state aid, ensuring students can pursue higher education without being burdened by tuition and fees. The scholarship is available to Nevada students regardless of income or GPA.

“The Nevada Promise Scholarship is truly transformative,” said WNC President Dr. J. Kyle Dalpe. “It provides every high school graduating senior in Nevada the opportunity to continue their education at a community college without the concern of cost. At WNC, we are committed to supporting students and their families throughout the process to help ensure success.”

To maintain eligibility, WNC representatives will guide students every step of the way, helping them complete requirements such as:

- Submitting a FAFSA application
- Participating in a training session
- Completing community service hours
- Meeting with a mentor

Eligibility is open to Nevada high school students graduating between Aug. 1 and June 15 who begin classes in the fall immediately following graduation. Students earning a GED or HSE prior to age 20 may also qualify.

The scholarship does not cover textbooks, lab fees, or housing, but it provides a clear and affordable pathway to higher education for students across the state.

Apply through WNC at wnc.edu/advising/promise or through any other Nevada community college. For more information, phone 775-445-3267.

Fernley Republican Women to meet Oct. 21

Staff Report

The Fernley Republican Women (FRW) will hold its next meeting at the Fernley Senior Center, 105 Lois Lane, on Oct. 21. A light meal will be served at 6 p.m. and the meeting will start promptly at 6:30 p.m.

Shawn Meehan, Founder, Guard the Constitution

The guest speaker will be Shawn Meehan, Founder, Guard the Constitution, speaking on “Why the Nevada GOP is Against the Article V Convention.”

The public is always invited to attend but anyone planning to attend is asked to RSVP to Katie Baker at kproctor926@gmail.com.

For more than a decade, Meehan has studied the U.S. Constitution in depth, specializing in Article V. In 2017, he authored and helped pass Nevada Senate Joint Resolution 10—receiving four unanimous votes—to rescind 10 pending Article V convention resolutions. Working alongside national constitutional scholars, he educates state legislators on the Constitution’s original meaning and safeguards. His platform, Guard the Constitution, stands at the intersection of conservative news, debate, and proven grassroots activism.

SilverSummit Healthplan to host free ‘Family Fall Festival’ on Oct. 22

Staff Report

SilverSummit Healthplan is hosting a free Family Fall Festival on Oct. 22 in Fernley to celebrate the recent expansion of Medicaid coverage into rural counties in Nevada. The event is designed to connect residents with valuable health resources and educate families about new benefits and services now available in Fernley.

The festival will be held from 4 to 7 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 22 at the Boys and Girls Club of Truckee Meadows at 695 E. Main St.

Open to community members of all ages, the festival will feature exciting raffle prizes, including brand-new bicycles with helmets and gift cards, along with a Halloween costume contest, airbrush artists creating custom T-shirts and hats, local vendors, and complimentary food and treats provided by SilverSummit Healthplan.

Through this event, SilverSummit Healthplan aims to raise awareness about its Medicaid coverage, highlight new benefits for eligible Nevadans, and strengthen its commitment to improving access to quality healthcare in Nevada.

OBITUARY

IN LOVING MEMORY - William John Maybury

Bill Maybury of Fernley, Nevada passed away peacefully, surrounded by his much-loved family, on October 5, 2025 after a long struggle with cancer. He was 89 years old.

Bill was born in 1935 in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania to his parents William and Ortrude. Bill's fondest childhood memories were living in South Bend, Indiana with his mother and step-father, George Becker.

Bill served in the U.S. Army during the Korean War, stationed stateside at Redstone Arsenal in Huntsville, Alabama, then went on to earn a Bachelor's in Mathematics from Purdue University, Indiana and later, a Master's in Mathematics from Pepperdine University in California. He worked as a computer programmer for more than 30 years, spending the majority of his career at Xerox where he helped to develop the graphical user interface used in the vast majority of computers today.

Bill Maybury

Bill married Ann Maybury, a fellow computer programmer, in 1962 and remained her loving husband for 63 years. They had three children together and Bill found his greatest joy in being a wonderful and supportive father. After their retirement, Bill and Ann traveled throughout the United States in their RV and then settled in Fernley. Bill took up writing as a hobby, publishing several books under the pen name Billy K. Baker. He considered his most important work to be Manhole in the Pacific, a WWII novel he had been researching and planning for several decades, which focuses on the critical role played by military support personnel during wartime.

Bill was a long-standing member of the Fernley Writers Group, where he enjoyed assisting other budding writers and receiving their critique and support in turn.

Bill was preceded in death by his parents and his oldest daughter, Marilyn. He is survived by his wife Ann, his children Michael and Megan, and his grandchildren Andrew, Ara, Robert, and Garrett.

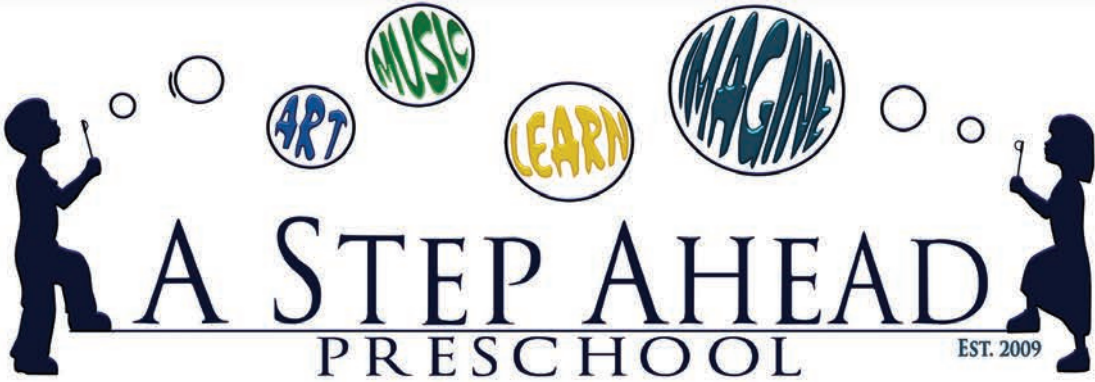

Bill's wish was not to have a funeral or memorial service, but the family is planning to share a private time of remembrance in the near future.

Koenig announces re-election bid for Assembly District 38

Staff Report

Assemblyman Dr. Gregory Koenig (R-Fallon) has announced that he will be seeking re-election to the Nevada

Assembly for District 38 covering Churchill, Esmeralda, parts of Lyon, Mineral, and parts of Nye Counties. Koenig was first elected to the Nevada Legislature in 2022 representing AD38 during the 2023 and 2025 Legislative Sessions as well as during the 34th and 35th Special Sessions of the Nevada Legislature. Koenig has served on the Education, Government Affairs, Health & Human Services Committees, and Ways & Means Committees. In 2025, he was Assembly Republican Caucus' Deputy Leader from Northern Nevada. During the 83rd legislative session, Koenig passed bi-partisan legislation such as AB 193, which significantly aids victims of crime by requiring law enforcement agencies to furnish a free copy of all reports concerning domestic violence upon written request. He also championed several bills to improve health care and support local businesses: AB 326 strengthens oversight of trauma care centers by ensuring they are officially designated for the level of care they provide; AB 183 modernizes the practice of optometry by updating licensure, disciplinary procedures, and clarifying the inclusion of optometric telemedicine; and AB 448 establishes requirements related to vision insurance, prohibiting certain unfair trade practices and protecting providers of vision care. Additionally, AB 251 supports the agricultural community by updating food inspection rules for custom processing establishments and mobile processing units, enabling them to slaughter certain animals on a commercial basis for intrastate and interstate commerce. "It has been an incredible honor to represent the people of Assembly District 38," Koenig said. "Before serving in the Nevada Legislature, I spent nearly two decades in local government—an experience that taught me the value of collaboration and community over partisanship. Unfortunately, that spirit of cooperation is often missing in Carson City as national politics increasingly influence state decision-making. Throughout my time in the Assembly, I've tried to bring that local-government approach—focusing on results, not rhetoric. Governor Lombardo's first term has helped restore balance in Nevada, but our work isn't done. We need more Republicans elected at every level of government, and that starts with all of us working together and remembering to vote all the way down the ballot in every election." Koenig has spent most of his life in Nevada. He was born out of state while his father was fighting in Vietnam but returned at the age of five. He received his K-12 education in Fallon and did part of his undergraduate work at the University of Nevada. He later attended Pacific University College of Optometry and returned to Fallon to start his own practice upon graduation. Koenig now has practices in Dayton, Fallon, Fernley, and Yerington. Koenig and his wife Terra have been married for 35 years. They have three children and nine grandchildren. Koenig is an active member of his church and enjoys playing basketball, golf, painting, traveling, and spending time with his family.

Council approves bike path extension

By Kerry Lyman

At its Oct. 1 meeting, the Fernley City Council approved a contract for the design and construction management of Phase 3 of the bike path along the south side of Farm District Road. Phase 3 of the bike path will complete a 0.3-mile gap in the path where it ends at Jasmine Lane and picks up again just west of Hendrix Drive, the entrance to the Legacy Trails subdivision. In addition, Phase 3 will extend the path another 0.3 miles east of the current end of the bike trail, just west of Country Ranch Road, to the intersection with Clearwater Parkway. When Phase 3 is completed, there will be about 3.7 miles of continuous bike path along the south side of Farm District Road from Villa Way, just south of the roundabout, to Clearwater Parkway. The city's Transportation Master Plan calls for the path to extend to the East Valley Elementary School, about another two miles east of the Phase 3 extension, and eventually to extend to the intersection with Highway 50A, about 3.9 miles east of the Phase 3 extension, according to a staff report on the item.

The $360,740 contract with Lumos & Associates for design and construction management anticipates construction of the Phase 3 improvements to begin by next fall. Construction costs will be funded by the federal Transportation Alternative Program, which supports bicycle, pedestrian and other non-motorized transportation projects to improve safety and connectivity, according to City Engineer Maria Paz Fernandez.

Osborn nominated to replace Gray in Assembly District 39

Staff Report

Nevada Assembly Minority Leader Gregory Hafen has submitted the name of Blayne Osborn of Gardnerville to fill the vacancy in Assembly District 39 for the rest of the term. The seat was vacated by the resignation of Ken Gray. District 39 represents Douglas County and part of Lyon County, including Dayton and a portion of Silver Springs. Because the district covers two counties, both county commissions are required to approve the appointment of a replacement separately, then meet jointly to approve the appointment. The Lyon County Commission was scheduled to vote on the nomination of Hafen at its Oct. 16 meeting. Osborn is the current president of Nevada Rural Hospital Partners and has been involved in every legislative session and special session in Nevada since 2009. Gray resigned his Assembly seat after he was appointed by President Donald Trump to serve as Senior Advisor to the National Cemetery Administration at the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs. Gray defeated Osborn in the 2022 Republican primary for District 39.

the case and whether he had discussed his legal defenses with his attorney. "I said yes, because my attorney was telling me to say yes to all this stuff right before," Maciel said. Maciel added that he believes he is factually innocent in the case. When asked by Neahusan if he was now saying he did not provide fentanyl to the victim, Maciel said yes. Neahusan then asked Maciel if he lied to the court when he admitted to the charges when entering his guilty plea. "I said what I was told to say," Maciel said, In his final arguments, Day said it's obvious that Brock physically couldn't spend enough time on the case. "I think that's, number one, something the court should take very seriously that Mr. Maciel did not receive adequate representation," he said. Day said the Supreme Court has said that a guilty plea surrendered on advice of counsel may be invalid by showing a manifest injustice through ineffective assistance of counsel. Aberasturi told Day that in addition to that, he also had to show that there was a reasonable probability the defendant would not have pleaded guilty. Day argued that if that had happened, Maciel would have had a full and adequate understanding of all possible defenses and possible punishments. "The totality of the circumstances here leads to the exact same conclusion, that it would be fair and just to allow Mr. Maciel to withdraw his plea," Day said. "The fact that my client didn't understand that it couldn't get any worse than the deal he signed is, I think, evidence enough that he did not enter his plea freely, voluntarily and knowingly. Neahusan argued that this appears to be just a case of buyer's remorse. "I understand that Mr. Maciel is nervous because he's facing a long time in prison," Neahusan said. "It wasn't until sentencing date the first time when Mr. Maciel said he didn't have any confidence and he wanted to withdraw his plea." In addition, Neahusan said Maciel did get benefits from the agreement. "He did get felonies, gross misdemeanors and misdemeanors dismissed in this case, and some of those have already been dismissed and cannot be brought back," he said. Day argued that Maciel did not have all the information, relationship with his attorney and time spent on his case that he was entitled to have and asked the court to allow him to withdraw his plea and set a trial date. Aberasturi in reviewing the transcript from the arraignment, the defendant did make all of the required answers to the court's questions. He also said he found Brock's testimony credible. "The defendant knew what he was doing that day. He knew what the charges were. He knew what the penalty was. He understood he was waiving his right to trial," Aberasturi said. "He understood he was waiving all of those rights, and he admitted to providing the drugs and being the proximate cause of the death." Aberasturi said he doesn't see that counsel's performance was deficient in that it fell below an objective standard of reasonableness and prejudice. "I don't accept the argument that with more time, things would have been different," Aberasturi said. "I think the discussions were had. I'll also disagree with counsel, I don't think this was rushed. This went on for six months, maybe even longer down at the Justice Court. I don't see the ineffective assistance of counsel per se. There were several discussions beforehand, and I don't see what additional time would have done to change it." As to the actual innocence, Aberasturi said the testimony he heard is double hearsay that there is someone else out there responsible. "I don't find the defendant's testimony credible that he's now factually innocent, (that) he didn't provide the drugs," Aberasturi said. "I just don't see enough evidence in the record today to find that it's fair and just to undo or allow the withdrawal of the plea." Aberasturi set sentencing for Oct. 20.

The meet featured hundreds of schools and more than 5,000 total runners competing in 10 different races.

The Vaqueros competed in the Division 5 varsity race, where the boys team finished 23rd among 34 complete teams. There were 237 runners in the boys Division 5 race. The girls had four runners in the Division 5 varsity race, where there were a total of 205 runners.

Joe Perkins had Fernley's fastest time, finishing in 38th place in the boys varsity race with a time of 16:45.60. Cael Wilson finished in 102nd place with a time of 17:40.00; Dominick Dietrich was 144th in 18:21.80; Zachary Petersen placed 158th with his time of 18:36.40; Alex Mergell came in 169th at 18:49.00; Skyler Ledesma-James came in 189th with a time of 19:16.90 and Daniel Hiles was 232nd with a time of 21:49.10.

For the girls, Corbyn Gillespie finished 153rd with a time of 23:19.70; Wynter Angus was 185th with a time of 25:06.00; Regan Scott placed 194th with a time of 25:46.20 and Jojo Cardinal came in 195th in 25:57.10.

The Vaqueros were scheduled to run twice this week. They were scheduled to run Wednesday in the Incline Highlander 5K, then Friday in the Lowry Cross Country Invitational at the Winnemucca Golf Course.

GoFundMe account set up to help family of FHS assistant football coach

By Robert Perea

A GoFundMe account has been set up to help the family of Brent Santos, a City of Fernley building inspector and Fernley High School assistant football coach who died suddenly and unexpectedly on Oct. 5.

Santos was an assistant coach at Spanish Springs for several years before taking a job with the City of Fernley earlier this year and joining the FHS football staff.

"We're heartbroken as a football program for that," Fernley head coach Anfernee Sloan said. "My thoughts and prayers go out to that family and they always have a place in our football program."

City of Fernley Building Official Charity Birkel organized the GoFundMe page, which had raised $9,992 as of Monday night.

"The city is doing its best to help support Tracy, Brent's wife, and his kids through this incredibly difficult time," Birkel said.

Volleyball: Vaqueros fighting for second seed after loss to Fallon

By Robert Perea

A loss to Fallon last Friday knocked the Fernley High School volleyball team into a battle with Dayton for the No. 2 playoff seed from the Northern 3A East.

Fallon defeated the Vaqueros in a tense five-set match, leaving Fallon in first place in the league with a 6-0 league record. Fernley rebounded on Saturday to beat Lowry in four sets and holds a half-game lead over Dayton for second place entering this week's matches.

With three matches remaining in the regular season, the Vaqueros would need to win all three and have Fallon lose three of its final four matches in order to have a chance at the No. 1 seed.

The Vaqueros are 5-2 in league play and will be on the road for their final three matches. They play at 6 p.m. Friday at Elko and at noon Saturday in Spring Creek, before going to Dayton to finish the regular season on Oct. 24.

Fallon was scheduled to play at Dayton Tuesday and host Lowry Friday, before finishing the regular season at home next Friday and Saturday against Spring Creek and Elko. Dayton is 4-2 in league play and travels to face Spring Creek Friday and Elko Saturday in between its match Tuesday with Fallon and on Oct. 24 against Fernley.

Fallon rallied to win the final two sets Friday night to pull two games ahead of the Vaqueros in the standings, winning 12-25, 25-18, 25-27, 25-28, 15-11.

"The match against Fallon, we played really good," Fernley coach Diane Chapin said. "They're a tough team."

Trista Menesini had 17 kills for Fernley and Grace Chapin added eight, as the Vaqueros had 37 kills for the match. But Fallon had 49 kills, led by Reagan Johnson with 16 and Sutton Yost with 11. Both teams served 11 aces, and Fernley had six blocks to Fallon's two.

"We just made some mistakes in big moments," Chapin said.

The Vaqueros didn't let the loss linger, however, beating Lowry on Saturday, 25-20, 25-16, 22-25, 25-17.

Fernley had 49 kills against the Buckaroos, 19 of them by Menesini and 13 by Lillianna Young. The Vaqueros also served 10 aces, had seven blocks and Alauna Escartin set up the attack with 33 assists.

"We played good in three out of four sets," Chapin said.

Melendy’s huge night overwhelms Vaqueros

By Robert Perea

There was nothing fancy about the way Fallon’s Carson Melendy carved up the Fernley defense last Friday night. He didn’t dance and didn’t daz-zle; he simply ran like a man late for something important and unwilling to be stopped.

Melendy ran for 357 yards on 23 carries to lead the Greenwave to a 42-15 win in Fernley last week, giving Fallon the chance to clinch the No. 1 playoff seed with a win at Elko this Friday night and leaving Fernley hop-ing for a shot at the No. 2 seed.

But Melendy needed only five of those 23 carries to define his night and decide the outcome of Friday’s game. Melendy had touchdown runs of 80, 67, 68 and 22 yards, and another run of 43 yards that set up a touchdown run by Matthew Bird, accounting for 280 of his 357 yards on just five plays.

Even so, the Vaqueros were feeling good about themselves after open-ing the second half with a 10-play, 75-yard drive to cut Fallon’s lead to 21-15. That is, until Melendy ripped off his third touchdown of the night, the 68-yarder that put the lead back to 27-15.

“I’m my mind I’m like, cool, we just scored, let’s get a stop, let’s get a punt, let’s go down and score again,” Fern-ley coach Anfernee Sloan said. “Then

I think that last long one, it might have been the final gut punch there.”

After that, Fernley managed just one first down on its last four posses-sions, while Melendy added another touchdown and Fallon’s Alijah Juarez punctuated the night with a 15-yard fumble return for a touchdown.

“That might honestly be the first time since I’ve been a head coach that I’ve had a team that just kind of sub-mitted,” Sloan said. “Like, they were just done when they knew they were out of the race.”

When he got the ball in open space, Melendy made sure there was no race.

On the game’s first play from scrimmage from Fallon’s 20-yard line, he took a handoff straight up the middle, hesitated slightly to let the hole open up, then burst through and was eight yards ahead of the closest defender when he crossed the goal line 80 yards later.

Fernley answered with a 9-play 65-yard drive on its first possession, with 63 of the yards coming on runs by Keeshawn Love, who scored on a 13-yard touchdown. After a penalty against Fallon on the extra point, the Vaqueros went for a two-point con-version and made it to take an 8-7 lead.

On the first play of Fallon’s second possession, Melendy took a handoff designed to go to his left, cut back to his right into the middle and again found nothing but an empty field in front of him for a 67-yard touchdown to put Fallon back on top 14-8.

The teams traded punts for the next five possessions, but Melendy started Fallon’s fifth drive with a 43-yard run to the Fernley 26, and six plays later, Bird ran it in from six yards out to make it 21-8 at the half.

But after thinking they were back in the game with their opening drive of the third quarter, everything caved in on the Vaqueros.

“That’s long runs. Can’t have that,” Sloan said. “You do the thing the right way like you’re taught to do it, those plays don’t happen.”

The Vaqueros will try to bounce back Friday night at Lowry, where they will have to try to stop Erick Valencia, who had a night similar to Melendy’s against them last year, running for 222 yards and six touch-downs in a game that Fernley won 79-47.

“That’s going to be a good oppor-tunity to kind of test our guys and see how it is that we can respond,” Sloan said. “I told them this is life. Every-thing’s going to be fine and dandy and happy, but something knocks you off your stool, how are you going to respond?”

Boys soccer
battling for playoff spot

Staff Report

Despite two losses last week, the Fernley High School boys soccer team remains in the hunt for a playoff spot.

The Vaqueros lost 1-0 at West Wendover on Oct. 10 and 9-2 at Elko on Oct. 11. The losses drop Fernley to 1-5-1 in the Northern 3A East but they remain in fourth place, a half a game ahead of Lowry. The top four teams in the league advance to the 3A North-ern Region Tournament.

Goaltender Kade Jensen made 15 saves for the Vaqueros against West Wendover, the the Vaqueros couldn’t get any of their eight shots on goal past the West Wendover goalkeeper.

Logan Kallas and Damien Ruiz each scored goals against Elko, but the Indians found the net six times in the first half and three in the second, “Varsity fell short this weekend against West Wendover and Elko, but the boys fought hard all the way to the end of the games,” coach Angel Muniz said.

The JV beat West Wendover and tied Elko. Landon Bates, Marcus Carrillo, and Callen Baerwaldt scored goals for Fernley. The JV team re-mains undefeated in league play at 5-0-2.

The Vaqueros have three homes games remaining to finish the regu-lar season. They play Spring Creek Friday with JV at 3 p.m. and varsity at 4:45 p.m. Saturday they host Lowry with JV at 10 a.m. and varsity at 11:45 a.m. The final game of the season is under the lights against Fallon on Oct. 24 and it will be Senior Night, with JV playing at 5 p.m. and varsity at 6:45 p.m.

Girls soccer

Staff Report

The girls soccer team lost 2-0 to Lowry last Saturday. Lowry scored both of its goals in the second half, after the teams fought to a scoreless first half. No Fernley statistics were available for the match.

The Vaqueros are in fifth place at 0-5 in the Northern 3A East, but trail Spring Creek by one game for the fourth playoff seed. They will play at Spring Creek at 4:45 p.m. Friday, and at Elko at 11:45 a.m. Saturday. Next week they wrap up the regular season on Oct. 25 at Fallon.

We’d love to hear from you.

PETS OF THE WEEK

Charming is Available for Adoption

This handsome fella' is Charming. Charming is available to adopt through Precious Paws Society of Nevada, a rescue group here in Fernley. Charming is a male kitten who is very energetic and loves to play. (They had to hold him down to get his picture taken!) Charming can also be very lovable and loves to sit in laps when he has gotten all of his excess energy out. He has been patiently waiting for his forever person/family to come and pick him, but so far no one has chosen this sweet and loving young cat. Charming is neutered, vaccinated and micro-chipped. If you would like to set up an appointment to meet Charming, please call and leave your contact info at 775-575-0950 and someone will get right back to you.

PET OF THE WEEK

Meet Wanda, Our Dog of the Week

Our pet-of-the-week is Wanda. Wanda is adult, female, German Shepherd. Wanda wandered her way to the shelter as an unclaimed stray. This sweet girl looks like she's been a momma recently. We were unable to track down an owner and therefore have no previous information on her. Here's what we have ascertained: Wanda seems very lost still and very unsure which is very normal in these circumstances. She does find comfort in companionship. Wanda is a gentle soul and very smart. Since her arrival, she's been very cuddly and gets along well with the other dogs. Those working at the shelter believe Wanda deserves a most special and loving home. If you would like to meet this sweet girl, you can contact the Lyon County Animal Shelter at 775-577-5005 and arrange a meet up with her. Or you can visit the Shelter at 3705 Highway 50 West in Silver Springs, NV.
